CAP ANNOUNCED ON STREET FUNDRAISERS

Council to introduce limit on 'chuggers'

AN AGREEMENT has been signed to limit the number of charity fundraisers allowed on the streets of Haringey.

Haringey Council last week committed to a site management agreement with the Public Fundraising Regulatory Association, which will limit the number of fundraisers – or "chuggers", as they are commonly known – in main shopping areas.

The council's cabinet acted following a series of complaints from residents about hostile and at times relentness efforts by charity collectors to get them to sign up for direct debit agreements.

A report from the cabinet meeting last Tuesday said that the agreement will cover the shopping areas in Crouch End, Highgate, Muswell Hill Broadway and High Road, Wood Green, between Turnpike Lane and Wood Green Tube stations.

It added that "the potential existed to extend the agreement in the future to cover additional areas in the borough as necessary".

The agreement means that the number of on-street fundraisers and their locations, plus the times and days on which they can operate, will be regulated

It will not be extended to cover charity collectors.

The SMA is expected to be in place before the end of this month and follows a similar agreement which is already operating in neighbouring Enfield.

Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for environment, said: "The site management agreement will help make sure we strike the right balance between allowing responsible charity collections and addressing residents' concerns.

"We want our high streets to be places where people can enjoy going about their shopping without worrying they will face a fundraiser every ten yards."

David Winskill, Liberal Democrat councillor for Crouch End, said: "Any measure to reduce the number of chuggers on Crouch End's streets is to be welcomed. However, I am concerned that there has been little consultation on this decision to restrict chuggers. The council must make more effort to consult local people."

Keen cyclist: Veronica Galvan-Guzman will be taking part in a 37-mile bike ride on Friday

Cyclists evoke the Olympic spirit

AN EDUCATION assistant from Harringay will join celebrities and sports stars for a 37-mile bike ride on Friday.

Veronica Galvan-Guzman, of Umfreville Road, will be joining other volunteers, including designer Wayne Hemingway and TOWIE star Lydia Bright, to cycle from the Olympic Park in Stratford, east London, to Cheshunt, Hertfordshire.

Organised by cycling charity Sustrans and backed by the Big Lottery Fund's Keeping The Spirit Of 2012 Alive campaign, Pedal On UK aims to reignite the spirit of the Olympic and Paralympic torch relays as it travels through the country over a three-week period. Veronica, 43, said: "I have been volunteering with Sustrans for some time. I cycle to work every day and feel that by promoting the use of bikes, every cyclist would be a lot safer.

"I have taken a course to become a cycling instructor and I love anything to do with cycling.

"This is why I am so happy to be part of Pedal On UK."

Man sentenced to 12 years on gun charges

A TOTTENHAM man has been jailed for 12 years for his part in an operation selling firearms and ammunition.

Ryan Groves, 39, of Lydford Road, pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to possess a firearm with intent to enable another to endanger life and one count of possession of ammunition without a certificate and was jailed at Wood Green Crown Court on Tuesday last week.

He was sentenced at the end of a six-week trial which saw seven men jailed for a total of 88 years. It followed a 14-month investigation by the Metropolitan Police's Trident Gang Command into three linked shootings on the Chingford Hall Estate, in Chingford, east London, in April, 2012.

Officers, who recovered six firearms and a large amount of ammunition during the investigation, believe the shootings were gang-related.

Detective Inspector Steve Meechan, from the Trident team, said: "There have been no shootings on the Chingford Hall Estate since April 2012."

OAP robbed in street

POLICE have issued an appeal to find a man in connection with the street robbery of a 93-year-old.

The pensioner was robbed at 11.13am on May 28 in The Weymarks, Weir Hall Road, Tottenham.

The man with whom officers are keen to speak about the incident is described as black, aged between 20 and 30, about 5ft 7ins tall and of slim build. He was wearing a blue flat cap and blue jeans.

Anyone who can help should call Haringey CID on 020 8345 0743 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Your chance to have lunch with AVB

FOOTBALL fans are being offered the chance to take part in a training session with Tottenham Hotspur, followed by lunch with Spurs manager Andre Villas-Boas.

The amazing prize, which also includes a signed Spurs shirt, is up for auction later this year as part of a bid to raise £1million for charity.

Sir Bobby's Breakthrough online auction will take place between October 10 and 27 in memory of former England, Ipswich Town and Newcastle United boss Sir Bobby Robson.

He set up the Sir Bobby Robson Foundation in 2008 and devoted the last 18 months of his life to it before he died from cancer in July 2009.

Villas-Boas said: "Sir Bobby is a true legend of the game, a great man, a great manager and a real gentleman. I often think of him and the inspiration he gave me, not only at Porto but throughout his life.

"The fact that so many fellow managers and people around the world are supporting this campaign speaks more about his legacy than I ever could.

Carnival flops after false chemical scare

Hundreds stay away as contamination rumours surface

Kim Inam
kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

THE organiser of the annual Enfield Carnival says he is bitterly disappointed by "vicious internet rumours" that led to a poor turnout at Saturday's event.

Carnival chairman John Ashton told the Advertiser that a week before the event – which includes a parade from Elsinge Golden Jubilee Park to Brimsdown Sports and Social Club, as well as a fete and an evening disco – a post on a social networking site said the land at the sports ground in Goldsdown Road, where the fete was scheduled to take place, had been contaminated with toxic chemicals.

Mr Ashton understands that a container marked toxic was found during maintenance work on football pitches but nothing was discovered inside.

"Somebody got to hear about it and posted it all over Facebook," he said. "They said there were 16 types of chemicals there and the public stayed away.

"The week before the carnival I had six meetings with either the council or the club to try to get it all sorted out. I was determined the carnival was going to keep going. I did everything I could."

Enfield Council issued a notice to stop work on the pitches last week, but the sports club was still allowed to function and the carnival went ahead as planned, although the fete was held on a nearby field.

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Downhearted but not defeated: Enfield Carnival organiser John Ashton

"I have been doing it since 2003," said Mr Ashton. "It was the smallest parade and number of stalls I've ever had.

"Normally, we have up to 800 members of the public. This year there were 20. It was an absolute flop. Those who did come said they enjoyed themselves."

Half of the groups failed to turn up for the parade and six stalls also cancelled, but the event still raised £101 for the voluntary ambulance group that was on hand to provide first aid on the day.

A council spokeswoman said the temporary stop notice was issued for work on the football pitches "to prevent unauthorised depositing of material on the site and to control commercial vehicle movements associated with this".

Gary Brooker, chairman of the sports and social club, added: "We are working with the council to get our fields back for the children to play football.

"There has been some stuff. When we started, we had to put a cap over the land. That's normal, particularly when we have come across glass and bricks."

He added that the pitches would be ready for the start of the club's season – but that Enfield (1893) FC, who use the ground, had had to switch this weekend's home FA Cup extra preliminary round game against London Tigers to a venue in Haringey.

Now you can report pesky potholes online

BROKEN pavements, blown street lights and damaging potholes can now be reported to the council online.

The Report It button on Enfield Council's website, www.enfield.gov.uk, allows eagle-eyed residents to ask for repairs 24 hours a day.

A council team processes the reports, mostly about potholes, faulty street lights, overhanging bushes and cracked pavements, and sends an officer to survey the problem.

If a repair is needed, it is usually carried out within 28 days of the issue being reported.

Achilleas Georgiou, deputy leader of the council, said: "This service is fantastic. If anyone sees a problem anywhere in the borough that needs attention, whether it is a pothole, or an issue with the street lights, pavements, bushes or trees, they just go online to the Report It section, fill in a few details and we do the rest."

If residents provide their details, they can then check on a repair's progress using the reference number provided.

For those without internet access, problems can be reported by calling 020 8379 1000 or in person at Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street.

The balloons go up: Children and their parents enjoyed the fun

Having a ball: Dodgeball was one of the games on offer at the playday in Enfield Town Park last week

Top draw: Young artists at work

Playday fun is a walk in the park

Cool look: Face painters were busy

BOUNCY castles thronged with children whose faces were painted all the colours of the rainbow left Enfield Town Park reverberating with shrieks and squeals of laughter last Wednesday.

To celebrate National Playday, Enfield Council's play development team put together a free and fun day of play for the borough's children.

With arts and crafts, dancing and a host of child-friendly adventures on offer, the council was able to drive home its message that "it's good to play".

The authority's play development manager Ricky Williams said: "Play is one of the best ways to learn, enjoy the company of the young and have some fun."

The children were not the only ones having fun in the sun, and the council's cabinet member for children and young people Ayfer Orhan, speaking before the event, said the day was sure to be a hit with parents and their kids.

"Enfield Town Park will be a wonderful playground for young children and they can have some fun in the splash pad," she said.

"This is a special day celebrating our children's right to play, but I also hope that Enfield's children take full advantage of the free activities at centres throughout the borough and the adventure places in our parks."

Fears for park over school plan

Problems abound: Frank Farmer, who lives near Grovelands Park

By Ruth McKee

ruth,mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

REVELATIONS that the council is eyeing a forgotten corner of an historic park as the potential site for a new primary school have left residents reeling.

As part of Enfield Council's primary expansion programme, proposals have been mooted to build a new two-form entry school beside tennis courts adjacent to Grovelands Park, in The Bourne, Winchmore Hill.

According to a statement on its website, the council is also hoping to use an overgrown brownfield site beside the Priory Hospital currently owned by Thames Water.

Although council bosses have stressed that at this stage the plans are merely "concept proposals", residents living close to the park – which has been labelled "at risk" by English Heritage – are joining forces to block any development that might harm the landscaping of the green space.

Planning bosses say that plans for the primary will see the school building designed to look like a "folly", in keeping with surrounding buildings.

But residents fear intensive development could ruin the parkland permanently .

Retired publishing director Frank Farmer, 80, who lives in Queen Elizabeths Drive, opposite the proposed site, told the Advertiser: "It just doesn't seem to be the ideal place to build a school.

"The residents fully understand the need for more school places. We are all aware of the pressure on existing school places, but looking at this particular location there would be all kinds of problems."

Mr Farmer said that traffic congestion in The Bourne already causes commuter chaos during rush hour.

"Eventually, there will be 400 children attending the school and then, of course, you have teaching and support staff on top of that," he said.

"Where would they park? Where would the children be dropped off by their parents?"

He added that a plan to build on virgin land made no sense when other disused buildings in the borough could be converted far more easily for teaching primary school children.

The council's cabinet member for children and young people Ayfer Orhan defended the plans to build on the land, saying: "The council has an opportunity to both improve its fantastic green spaces and provide additional school places that are needed in this area.

"We have been listening to parents trying to access places in their most local primary schools.

"By considering options for locating a school in Grovelands Park, we are showing our commitment to providing local schools for local children."

M&S distribution centre to be closed

More than 250 workers face losing their jobs

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

MORE than 250 workers could lose their jobs after retail giant Marks & Spencer announced it will be shutting its Enfield warehouse next year.

The borough's unemployment figures face another blow when the retailer's distribution centre, in Bancroft Way, Brimsdown, shuts for good early in 2014.

However, a spokeswoman from warehouse management company Wincanton, which runs the centre, told the Advertiser the company would do everything it could to find jobs in other centres for the under-threat workers.

She added: "Should the proposal to shut the centre go ahead, the site will close in the first half of 2014, affecting 257 Wincanton employees who are currently based there.

"Both M&S and Wincanton wish to make it clear that this proposal is in no way a reflection of the commitment and contribution of the Wincanton team in Enfield whose performance has been exemplary throughout."

Despite the company's assurances, the RMT union, which represents many of the centre's workers, warned that the announcement was "grim news for Enfield and the surrounding area".

A union spokesman said: "At this stage we are awaiting further information from the company, but whatever the outcome we are fully committed to fighting to protect our members' jobs and standards of living."

He added: "Clearly, there is still a need to distribute M&S products and RMT is working to ensure that staff have the opportunity to transfer to alternative employment within that distribution framework."

Under threat: The M&S distribution centre in Bancroft Way, Brimsdown

Stressing that the decision was part of an efficiency drive, a spokesman from Marks & Spencer said: "We have to reorganise our supply network and, as part of that work, we have made a proposal to close our warehouse in Enfield.

"We will now work closely with the operator, Wincanton, its employees and other stakeholders to discuss the future of the site.

"We understand that it will be an unsettling time for all involved and will do all we can to offer support throughout the process."

Nine vehicles seized in police crackdown

ALMOST 200 vehicles were stopped by police during an operation last week designed to disrupt criminals.

Operation Cubo saw officers stopping cars being driven without insurance or not in accordance with the licence.

During the Met-wide crackdown on Wednesday and Thursday, 189 vehicles were stopped in Enfield, nine were seized and ten fixed penalty notices were issued.

Two people were arrested for having a blade and another person who was wanted on a domestic violence charge was arrested.

Commander Stephen Watson, who led the operation, said: "The Met again provided a strong presence across the capital stationed at 300-plus stop sites.

"This visible presence will act to reassure the public and increase their confidence in our service.

"This was the 22nd Operation Cubo and together we made a significant impact across the capital."

Another man arrested as stabbing victim is released from hospital

A FOURTH man has been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder after two men were found with stab wounds near a roundabout in Upper Edmonton.

The 33-year-old man was arrested on Tuesday last week and has been released on police bail until September.

Police were called to a slip road off the eastbound carriageway of the A10 near the Cambridge roundabout at about 11.30pm on Saturday, August 3.

They discovered two men who had been stabbed in the chest lying near the roundabout.

Police believe the men may have been stabbed during a brawl in Whetstone.

Officers received reports of a disturbance there shortly after 11pm on the same night.

The two wounded men were taken to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, where one remains in a critical but stable condition.

The second victim, a 30-year-old, was discharged from hospital last Wednesday and then arrested on suspicion of violent disorder. He has been bailed until a date later this month.

Another 30-year-old man and a 25-year-old man arrested last Wednesday on suspicion of violent disorder have been bailed until later this month.

Three other men, aged 31, 30 and 26, have been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and all three have been bailed until next month.

Suspended sentence

ON July 31, we mistakenly reported that Adam Kephalas, 24, of Colebrook Way, New Southgate, was given a suspended prison sentence for having sex with a 14-year-old girl. He was convicted of sexual activity with a child. We would like to correct this error.

Bedroom blaze fuelled by sunshine on mirror

INTENSE rays of sunlight hitting a vanity mirror that had been left on a window sill sparked a blaze in an Oakwood home last week.

Two fire engines were called to a house in Lakeside on Tuesday after a woman walking her dog heard a neighbour's fire alarm sounding.

The residents were away on holiday and the fire brigade believe the blaze was started when intense rays of sunlight were focused by the mirror on to bedroom curtains, which subsequently caught fire.

A London Fire Brigade spokeswoman admitted that this type of blaze breaks out "several times a year" in the capital.

She added that such fires can be caused by mirrors, bottles, broken glass and even goldfish bowls left near windows.

"Though the residents of the property are coming back to a burnt bedroom, the damage would have been a lot worse if a neighbour hadn't heard the smoke alarm and dialled 999," added the spokeswoman.

"Smoke alarms will alert you, or your neighbours, to a fire quickly, enabling firefighters to put the fire out before it causes too much damage. Test your alarm every week and make sure your family and your neighbours know what to do if they hear it going off."

The fire was contained to the bedroom and did not spread through the semi-detached home.

Petrol tanker fire sparks M25 gridlock

COMMUTERS were caught in rush-hour chaos on the M25 last week after a petrol tanker burst into flames on the westbound carriage-way between junctions 25 and 24.

The fire brigade were called to the blaze just after 6.30am on Thursday and six fire engines contained the flames to the driver's cab after battling the fire for more than 90 minutes.

The fire was under control by 7.55am and no one was hurt.

All three lanes of the westbound carriageway were closed for more than two hours with one lane reopening at 8.55am.

There were severe delays with queues stretching as far as the M11 junction and knock-on effects were felt on the A406 and A10.

Beware dangers of the internet

ISN'T the internet wonderful? We can sit in comfort at home and visit faraway places and meet all manner of interesting new people.

We can take out the aggression of a long day by ranting on a message board or get re-tweeted to thousands by insulting a celebrity.

And therein lies the danger. To be on the receiving end of deeply personal jibes about your deepest insecurities is horrific.

But Garry Kousoulou is right. The only thing we can do to stop young people feeling that the world is out to get them every time they log on is to educate them in the vagaries of social media.

Children need to be equipped with both the technical skills to know how to block and report abuse – but also with the life skills to know that anything they see targeted at them online must be taken with a bucketload of salt.

The council should back crusaders like Mr Kousoulou to the hilt, as with his expertise Enfield could be one of the few boroughs in the country where young people can feel properly safe online.

More job worries

THE announcement that more than 250 jobs will be lost with the closure of the Marks & Spencer distribution centre is yet another blow to Enfield's economic recovery.

As we are bombarded with the news that the cost of living continues to rise, wages are at best stationary and zero-hour contracts are increasingly the norm, any news that scarce jobs are drying up is deeply worrying.

What will these newly jobless do with industry and employers wary about hiring at a time when the economic future is still uncertain?

We can't safeguard all jobs but the time has come for drastic action in finding new ways to keep employment in the borough, otherwise the future looks increasingly bleak.

Hospital downgrade will not help those who use services

GP LIZ Wise, of the Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, says that the downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital is perfectly acceptable and critical to long-term sustainability and quality of healthcare in Enfield ("Hospital downgrade is vital", Advertiser, August 7).

She also urged that Enfield North MP Nick de Bois drop his opposition to the downgrade of Chase Farm accident and emergency department.

I do not agree with Mr de Bois, or the government, but he is right to stand up for his constituents that no one wants or agrees with the downgrading of services at Chase Farm .

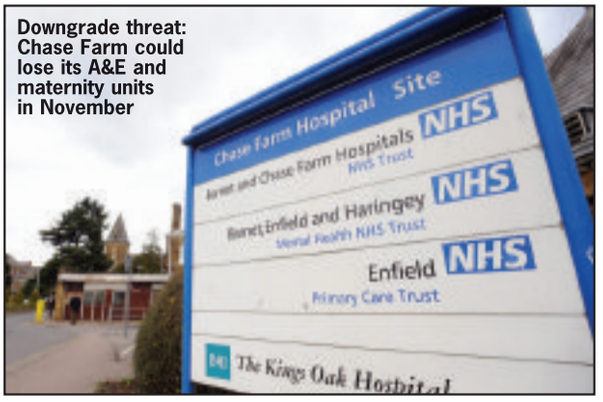

Perhaps, Ms Wise could explain to the taxpayers of Enfield – and also Haringey and Barnet, as we are all one health authority and have been for a long time – how services are going to be made better?

Better still, perhaps she could explain to myself and my beloved husband who are ill through no fault of our own, how we will have access to accident and emergency?

My husband is blind, has renal failure and heart failure and is in and out of hospital a lot.

Or she can explain how services have been improved when patients are put in chairs as no cubicles are available at North Middlesex Hospital because Chase Farm was asset-stripped against all our wishes.

Downgrade threat: Chase Farm could lose its A&E and maternity units in November ❑ RE: Your articles about Chase Farm in last week's Advertiser.

I am not happy in the way the hospital is being attacked – I find it disgusting and horrible.

Staff are being laid off, so it will affect services.

The government really needs to stop the closures of any department there and instead invest money in the hospital.

It's funny how Lewisham A&E was saved, yet Chase Farm is being undermined.

I feel that Chase Farm is a fantastic place which needs to remain open as a fully functionally hospital and the government needs to pump some money into it.

No way will North Middlesex or Barnet cope if Chase Farm does lose its A&E and maternity departments. It's going to be disastrous, trust me.

Robert Burnside
Fouracres, Enfield

❑ IT has been ten long years since the first proposals were put forward to remove major services from Chase Farm Hospital, under a London, Barnet Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy.

Quite a lot has happened in the meantime – including changes in hospital chief executives and health secretaries and two reviews by the Independent Reconfiguration Panel.

There were massive marches, letters, petitions, tens of thousands of responses to consultations against the proposals, with south Hertfordshire residents joining in, as traditionally at least 30 per cent of the patients at Chase Farm are from the area – but it has all been brushed aside.

South Hertfordshire residents were not formally consulted because it is a London, Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy.

However, there is an obligation to consult persons to whom those services are being or may be provided.

Hertfordshire representatives have undoubtedly been consulted but not the residents who use Chase Farm Hospital as their own.

At the end of September, the Barnet Enfield and Haringey Clinical Commissioning Groups of GPs and two hospital trusts will be asked to provide written confirmation of readiness to proceed to implement the proposed strategy this November.

Conditions include four extra GPs and primary care centres in Enfield being in place before Chase Farm services are removed – but four are proposed for 2014/15 with one other identified as a possible site.

Population numbers have proven to be vastly underestimated, while concerns over public transport and qualified ambulance staff are nowhere near being addressed.

Enfield is open for business

COUNCILLOR Martin Prescott's rant in your paper (Letter, Advertiser, August 7) was misleading.

Firstly, he suggests that local unemployment only shot up after 2010, but that's wrong.

Enfield's industrial base has suffered since the 1980s, partially because nothing was done by a series of incompetent Tory administrations, some of whom included Mr Prescott.

Secondly, Mr Prescott appears to be ignorant of the great things that Enfield's hard-working regeneration team is doing now to rebuild our economy. Examples include the British Gas deals; millions in new inwards investment; and linking council purchases to local suppliers and jobs.

These actions are all having a positive effect on local employment.

Lastly, he invents some gobbledygook that we are anti-enterprise – but that's silly.

The truth is that under this Labour administration, Enfield is open for business.

And Enfield is doing business.

Councillor Alan Sitkin
Bowes ward

Both sides of religious divide

RE: John Wainwright's letter regarding MPs' faith and gay marriage (Advertiser, August 7).

I am glad Mr Wainwright can have a relationship with an unconditional creative energy, but subjective interpretations of a religious text have serious consequencess for all of us.

People who practise religion in a higher state of consciousness positively contribute to society in the form of giving love, art, music, literature and architecture.

Those who choose to translate sacred texts differently are behind tragedies like the Magdalen laundries and women's right to abortion.

MP David Burrowes was elected to represent the people of Enfield Southgate, but sticks with his evangelical agenda regardless of whether his constituents want him to or not.

I would absolutely defend Mr Wainwright's right to practise Christianity.

But when views become an action that could be imposed on me in law, the Bible becomes a divisive tool that weakens our unconditional love for each other.

Street dance aces: Stepperz impressed the Haringey mayor so much she booked them for a tea party

A step in right direction

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHARITY talent show to highlight the strength of community spirit in north London has already seen one act secure their next gig.

The Big Community Giveback was arranged by Nina Chung, from Enfield, and Sheryta Nicholson-Porter, from Tottenham, to counteract negative connotations about the areas after the rioting which took place in August 2011.

Saturday's funday and evening performance at the Bernie Grant Arts Centre, in Town Hall Approach Road, Tottenham, was attended by the mayor of Haringey Sheila Peacock, who booked one of the groups to perform at her tea party.

Nina, 27, of Lavender Road, said: "It went really well, the acts were really good.

"The mayor of Haringey said she was surprised by the talent on show and has invited the street dance act Stepperz to perform at her tea party.

"And people were so surprised to win some of the raffle prizes – we still have some tombola prizes left over that we are going to donate straight to the charities."

There were at least 200 tickets sold for the Big Community Giveback and all proceeds raised will go towards the Myasthenia Gravis Association and the Butterfly AVM Charity, two charities that support children with rare disorders.

"The people from the charities said they really liked the show," added Nina, "and they were really pleased that the performances raised a lot of awareness for both charities.

"It was a lot of hard work, but when you want to do something to raise money for charity, you can always find the time and the energy – anybody can do it.

"I was quite relieved when it was over, but a lot of people said to us it should be a yearly thing.

"This was our first one. I think it will get easier if we do it as an annual thing from now on."

Local Award Winning Pharmacy celebrates 25th Anniversary

Sizzingly Hot Celebrations

Thursday 1st August saw customers flock to Reid's Pharmacy to mark the Pharmacy's 25th Anniversary.

Over 120 customers of Reid's Pharmacy braved one of the hottest days of the year to be a part of the celebrations that included Mr Leroy Logan MBE (Retired Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police).

During a speech given by Leroy Logan MBE (a client of the Pharmacy) he acknowledged the current challenges faced by independent pharmacies, which were indicated in a recent report produced by AT Kearney – that stated "combined forces could result in a 38 percent decline in the average profitability of the average pharmacy and independent pharmacies in particular, will be severely challenged with a very real prospect that up to 2,000 outlets could be closed."*

Leroy Logan noted the positive difference that Terry Reid and the staff at Reid's Pharmacy have made to the health and well being of the local community over the years and was glowing in praise for the hard work and efforts of the whole team, at one point encouraging the customers to give the pharmacy staff "Three Cheers" – an experience so few people can say has occurred to them during their working life.

The atmosphere was reminiscent of a garden party, with those customers unable to get into the pharmacy quite content in soaking up the rays outside the pharmacy, comfortably sipping on a cool drink and eating the fare laid on by the pharmacy.

The customers who seemed genuinely to appreciate the service over the years were enjoying the celebrations, meeting their friends, neighbours and having a good time – left clutching specially produced party bags made for the occasion.

Terry Reid was delighted to be celebrating 25 years with his friends (a way in which he describes all his customers) and hopes that he and his team will be serving the community for many more years to come.

Phil's Underground musical dream

BUSKING in some of London's iconic squares and landmarks can be quite a lucrative gig for cash-strapped musicians.

With licences for the most popular spots in high demand, a Winchmore Hill singer/songwriter has leapt at the opportunity to win a coveted slot as part of this year's Big Busk competition.

After sailing through the video audition, which saw 4,500 musicians submitting entries for the talent show, Phil Crocker, 23, of Wades Hill, now has to battle 250 other hopefuls and convince travellers in London it should be his soulful piano playing lifting their mood as they step off a Tube in the bustling throng of the city.

Despite the "low-brow" reputation of some talent shows, Phil feels that taking part in this competition is a great way to get his music noticed – particularly as another part of the prize is free studio time in a top recording studio.

"At the moment I feel that talent shows are one of the best ways for new singer/songwriters to get out there," Phil, who went to Latymer School in Edmonton, told the Advertiser. "Quite a lot of the time people are just going on things like The X Factor and Britain's Got Talent for the exposure and to meet like-minded people."

Phil believes he has an edge over his rivals because he is already something of a seasoned performer with a string of gigs under his belt at renowned music venue The Bedford in Balham, south-west London.

Closer to home he is known to residents for dragging his electric piano up on to Winchmore Hill Green for an impromptu performance as past of last year's N21 Festival.

Voting closes on August 31 and to vote for him visit http://www.london.gov.uk/priorities/arts-culture/gigs/search-and-vote/phil-crocker

For details of Phil's upcoming performances, follow him on twitter @officialphilc

Martial arts teen is violin virtuoso

Orchestra leader: Violinist Dency Dela Cruz

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER from Edmonton who swapped martial arts for music is basking in the glory of his latest classical coup de grâce.

Aspiring engineer Dency Dela Cruz is studying for A-levels in maths, further maths, physics and chemistry at Lea Valley High School in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, and had not picked up a violin until three years ago.

But now he is so skilled that Dency led the National Orchestra For All's annual performance at Warwick University earlier this month in front of a thousand people.

"It was quite a nerve-racking experience," admitted the 17-year-old, of Kettering Road, Enfield Lock.

"I came out on stage last and had to bow in front of the audience.

"Then when I sat down I was right at the front of the orchestra. I could see all the faces looking up at me and you feel quite special because you know all those people actually want to be there to listen to you play."

Dency's passion for music was ignited three years ago by accident after his mother was horrified by his other big love – martial arts.

"It is quite a funny story," he explained. "My mum came to see a martial arts competition I was in. She saw all these kids being injured and said, 'you're absolutely not doing this any more'."

Admitting he saw the funny side of his mum's fears, Dency revealed he was secretly pleased to have an excuse to start taking music seriously.

"With music I can get away from all the academic stuff – it's something so different," he told the Advertiser.

"And the sense of achievement you feel when you hear something on the radio or the internet and then can play it – it feels great."

Unlike with other youth orchestras which demand a skill level only possible with years and years of experience, National Orchestra For All selects musicians based on passion and attitude rather than flawless technique.

Orchestra bosses were so impressed with Dency's inspiring attitude that they gave him his own violin and private tuition.

Dency wants to keep his music "a fun hobby" rather than try and carve out a career for himself in the industry.

But the teenager is in no doubt that after his summer triumph he will be keeping up his practice if for no other reason than "it is a really good revision break".

Deaf kids in the swim

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

MORE than 60 children made a splash last week in a summer swimming school with a twist.

The Take The Plunge swim school ran its first-ever fully British Sign Language assisted course at Waverley School, in The Ride, Ponders End.

Aided by BSL expert Simone Rickard, from Enfield Disability Action, swim school manager Jackie Sycamore developed an intensive course to help both deaf children and those with no hearing problems to boost their confidence in the water.

Jackie said the idea just "popped into her head" after a conversation with a parent of one her regular students.

"It was something that was said to me by a parent about two years ago," she said.

"She is deaf and she told me that when she was a child the facilities to build confidence in the water with sign-assisted swimming classes were simply not there."

For the past two years, Jackie has been developing a way to create a course where disabled children could flourish.

And this summer she launched the summer intensive course with deaf and other children learning how to swim side by side.

"Swimming is a great leveller because in the water nobody can hear," she explained.

"It really is a level playing field.

"And something like this is actually very empowering because all of the children realise, 'I can do this on my own – this is something I can do without mum or dad helping me'."

Now the week of sign-assisted instruction is over, Jackie says that some of the deaf children who enjoyed their time with Take The Plunge have signed up already for the weekly regular swim school sessions in September.

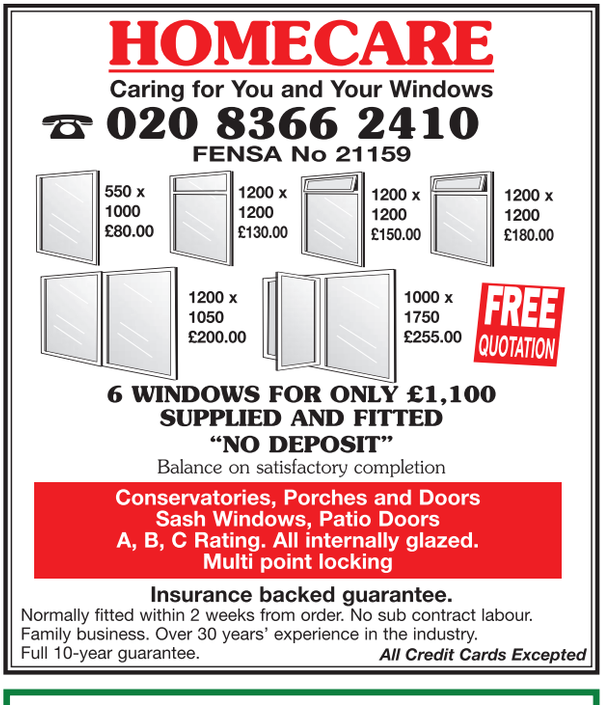

Anyone interested in signing up to lessons with the school should contact Jackie through its website at www.take theplungeswimschool.com/

Double yellow lines still off limits

CALLS to allow drivers to park on double yellow lines have been dismissed by Enfield Council's environment chief.

Earlier this month, Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government Eric Pickles said that drivers should be allowed to park for free on double yellow lines in town centres for up to 15 minutes.

Mr Pickles said this would help wrest trade from large, out-of-town shopping centres and back to town centres.

Local government minister Brandon Lewis added: "Councils now need to play their part in reining back in the over-zealous culture of municipal parking enforcement.

However, Enfield's cabinet member for the environment Chris Bond told the Advertiser: "Double yellow lines are there for a purpose – they are there for safety and to allow free flow of traffic.

"If you park on double yellow lines, then common sense would tell you that it becomes dangerous."

Mr Bond said that introducing such a scheme would risk people's safety.

But he added that the council is always open to reviewing the sites of double yellow lines if residents ask the local authority to look again at where a specific traffic restriction is located

Parking fees fall in bid to lure shoppers

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Council is reducing car parking charges in a bid to encourage people to shop in the borough.

The new tariffs will be brought in across all council-run car parks.

The reduced charges mean that shoppers can park for between one to three hours and pay the same price as it currently costs to park for between one and two hours.

Three to five hours will cost shoppers the same as it currently costs to park for four hours.

On top of the price reductions, the council will introduce a new ticketless parking system at Palace Garden Shopping Mall car park, off Church Street, Enfield Town.

Number plate recognition technology will register the details of cars parking in the multi-storey. On returning to their vehicle, shoppers then enter their registration number into a computerised system and can then pay without having to search for a ticket.

However, the high-tech plans have been slammed by Enfield's Conservative group, with deputy leader Joanne Laban saying that the council's new scheme discriminates against disabled drivers.

The Conservatives have said that because the technology does not differentiate between cars, then blue badge holders will be charged the same as all other drivers in the car park.

"It seems incredible that they have not seen fit to have a no-pay list using blue badge holders' registrations," she said.

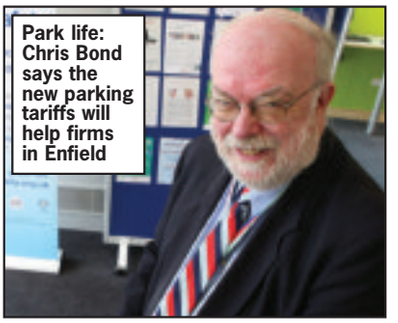

"It's a basic function and they should stop the introduction of this system until it works properly. Blue badge holders should be allowed to continue to park in a car park for free, like they have been able to up until now regardless of the payment system used.

"The removal of free parking in car parks for blue badge holders is a blatant act of discrimination against Enfield's disabled and most vulnerable residents."

But cabinet member for the environment Chris Bond says the new parking systems will boost trade in the town centres.

He said: "These new parking tariffs will encourage people to stay for longer in our town centres, spend more money in our shops and give our traders a bit of a boost during this tricky financial period.

"We are determined to support our traders, build up Enfield's economy and help create an environment in which our businesses flourish and create jobs for our residents."

Park life: Chris Bond says the new parking tariffs will help firms in Enfield

A view from Westminster

AS A father of six children, I am aware how much harder it is getting for parents to protect children from viewing inappropriate online material – particularly of a violent and sexually explicit nature.

This is why I am pleased to have played a part in the Prime Minister's commitment to increase online child protection through a national campaign, aptly entitled Protecting Our Children.

The campaign's objectives are to help parents by installing family friendly filters and to stop child abuse images.

This will be supported through boosting police action, backing the Internet Watch Foundation and ensuring there is one central database to pool intelligence.

The Prime Minister's campaign has in part stemmed from a parliamentary inquiry into online child protection, which I took part in last year.

During the inquiry we found many children were easily accessing websites that featured pornographic and extremely violent material.

The impact this can have on children is major. It can affect the way they view sex and relationships, evoke in them an acceptance or glorification of violence and crime and change the way they view and treat their peers.

I am pleased that internet service providers in Britain are engaging actively already on a major campaign to deter people who are searching for child abuse images.

We need them to go a step further, however, to ensure that more support and signposting for internet safety education is provided for both parents and children.

We must also look at how we can help protect our children on a personal level.

We must confront the issue head on, speaking to children about what they are seeing online, putting in place parental controls where possible and holding each other to account for what we are watching.

OPINION/COMPETITION

Jane Johnson

Enfield Borough Commander

I AM in my office, it's 4am and I'm the night duty senior cover for north London. The last three nights have been relatively busy – my phone has not stopped ringing about all manner of things, and it just reinforced to me how much London is a 24/7 city.

We are four weeks out from changes to the way we police in Enfield.

The changes ensure that we are able to deliver policing within the government's budget and that we are flexible to the challenges of this bright and vibrant city.

Enfield has grown in complexity and every day we deal with incidents that used to be typical of inner London.

I'm very pleased that under the new model the police numbers in Enfield will increase significantly, by 85 officers.

That is a massive investment and one I know will deliver better visibility across the borough and extra staff to target crime and antisocial behaviour to improve the experiences of both residents and visitors.

We have already received new officers and Enfield now has 556 cops, which is nearly 80 more than when I arrived almost 18 months ago.

Our final target is 609 by 2015.

On a less positive note, I've been looking at our figures for theft, namely snatch and pickpocketing, and there has been a very worrying increase in these types of offences despite our success in reducing the more serious offence of robbery.

Experience shows that potential victims can really help prevent crime and I ask for your support with the following:

Be aware of your surroundings, especially when using your phone in the street. It can easily be snatched from your hand when you're distracted.

Make sure you know the IMEI number for your phone and register it, as this will help us to trace it back to you if it is recovered. On smartphones, load the findmyphone app. We use these to track stolen phones with some success.

Ladies, please close your handbag, do not leave it unattended under any circumstances and consider using a purse bell, which your local safer neighbourhood team can provide free of charge.

Finally, once again, please follow us on Twitter at @MPSEnfield.

Open-air Shakespeare was a real Midsummer dream

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE lawn of the house where Nell Gywn, infamous orange seller, actress and mistress to King Charles II, gave birth to the illegitimate son of the monarch is probably the best place in London to sit back, huddled under a blanket, and watch a tale of "how the path of true love never did run smooth".

Shooting Stars Theatre Company is currently performing its production of A Midsummer Night's Dream on the tea lawn of Lauderdale House, in Waterlow Park, Highgate Hill – taking advantage of the stunning backdrop of the park and the intimate feeling of the lawn that is edged with crumbling red brick walls.

The play centres on one night of mischief-making by creatures of the fairy realm.

And as the wind rustled through the branches of the trees that act as a natural proscenium arch to the action, it was easy to imagine how the play – with its supernatural themes and kinky goings-on in the Athenian woods – would have raised goosebumps on the arms of the Elizabethan crowd that first gathered to watch it.

It might have been the beautiful setting that made me throw myself so wholeheartedly into the play – but I suspect it had far more to do with the sheer skill of the actors.

Each line was delivered with such attack and clarity that even the young children in the front row were rolling in the improvised aisles with laughter.

With Shakespeare, I find that sometimes the actual meaning of the language becomes lost as the actors deliver each couplet so solemnly in their finest drama school diction that the music of the language drowns out the meaning of the words.

But that wasn't the case here.

On top of that, every member of the cast managed to find some way to ditch the clichés about their characters.

Ruth E Mortimer's Tatiana was a feisty party girl, Matt Butcher brought a menacing cockney authenticity to bully-boy patriarch Egeus and Natalie Boyake, who played lovelorn Helena, had the audience eating out of the palm of her hand with her her funny and touching monologues and asides.

Shooting Stars' production of A Midsummer Night's Dream is being performed on the lawn of Lauderdale House until this Friday.

Tickets can be bought from the box office on 020 8348 8716 or online at on www.lauderdalehouse.co.uk

They cost £14 (£12 concessions) for a chair on the lawn or £12 (£10) for a spot on the grass.

Director fishing to find schoolboy lead for film

PRODUCERS of a short film set in the Tottenham Marshes are looking for a local boy to play the lead character.

Filming for the five-minute drama Fishing is set to start next month.

However, Last Bus Films are still trying to find the right actor to play the role of Charlie, a schoolboy misfit who encounters a predatory adult during his weekly solo fishing trip.

The semi-autobiographical film was written by director Philip Robinson, who spent three days scouring Google Maps to find the perfect spot for the script before he came across Chalk Bridge on the River Lea at Tottenham Marshes.

"Everything about this place was so perfect that I was scared to go down there in case it had been redeveloped or something," said Philip.

But after visiting the location, he rewrote parts of the script to include specifics about the area.

Now the crew have secured actor Matthew Jure to play the adult lead and an experienced professional crew, who are offering their services for nothing.

The only thing missing is the lead child actor, Charlie.

"I need someone quite specific for this part," Philip explained. "He has to have the right mix of determination and vulnerability.

Perfect location: Philip Robinson by Chalk Bridge at Tottenham Marshes

"It's an empowerment story and in some ways a cautionary tale in which Charlie finds his inner strength and the courage to set off in a new direction.

"Because fate had been so kind to me with the location, I wanted to give a bit of that back and throw a call out there and see if Charlie was just waiting to be found locally."

The production team are looking for a boy who can play a 12-year-old whose voice has not yet broken and who can ride a bicycle. No previous experience of acting is necessary and there is only one line of dialogue.

Philip added: "If, by some miracle, he also knew how to fish, that would be more than I could hope for."

A casting session has been arranged between 2pm and 4pm next Tuesday at Four Corners Film Centre, 121 Roman Road, Bethnal Green, E2 0QN.

Call producer Liz Friend on 07979 553 839 for more information.

All children attending must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Why homeowners should extend their leases?

Local leading estate agency Bairstow Eves in Edmonton is warning property owners with leases of less than 85 years to extend their term or face the risk of spiralling costs.

More than one million homeowners across the UK are at risk of their lease falling below this mark. The problem is likely to grow over the coming years as more properties, especially flats built in the 1970s and 1980's, fall under the critical leasehold threshold of 80 years. The danger to the leaseholder once the lease falls below this level is that the increasing cost of extending the lease term may outweigh the diminishing value of the property. With most lenders unwilling to grant a mortgage on property with a shorter lease, leaseholders may also find it increasingly difficult to sell or remortgage their property after some years of ownership.

According to data from Countrywide Surveying Services, one of the UK's leading survey and valuation firms, the current UK 'hotspots' are in the South East, particularly Brighton and Eastbourne with over 17,000 properties at risk, Greater London with nearly 50,000 properties at risk and Birmingham and the East Midlands with over 7,500 properties at risk.

"The cost of extending the lease typically shouldn't be more than a few thousand pounds but the longer you wait the more you will have to pay as the cost of the extension increases and your property drops in value", says Paul Cutbill, Head of Professional Development at Countrywide Surveying Services.

"Where there is less than 80 years left on the lease, the homeowner will also need to pay the freeholder a 'marriage value', reflecting the increase in the property's value caused by the extension of the lease. If there is more than 80 years on the lease then 'marriage value' will not arise"

Extending a lease is complex and homeowners should instruct an RICS Registered Surveyor to value the property and negotiate the terms of the extension, and a solicitor to complete the legal work. To help homeowners understand their options, Countrywide Surveying Services has launched an online tool at www.increasemylease.co.uk. The website offers homeowners a simple process for providing all the experienced professional services they need under one roof, to help them save time and money and giving peace of mind throughout the transaction.

As part of Countrywide, Bairstow Eves is able to offer this service to its customers. "Homeowners concerned about the length of their lease can pop into one of our branches in Edmonton and speak to an agent about their options. If they require an extension of the lease we can refer them to a team of people who will look after their needs," says Simon Parchment, Branch Manager of Bairstow Eves.

For further information about leasehold extension, please contact your nearest Bairstow Eves or Alternatively go to www.increasemylease.co.uk for details.

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Win £150 of school items from Staples and Sharpie

GETTING the kids kitted out for the new term can be expensive for any parent, which is why Sharpie, the UK's favourite permanent marker, has teamed up with Staples to give one lucky reader the chance to get all their child's school supplies sorted.

One winner will receive £100 to spend in Staples on anything from pencil cases and folders, to homework desks and study aids.

Plus, Sharpie will throw in a bundle of markers, pens and highlighters worth £50.

And, even if you don't win, Sharpie and Staples have a treat in store – a Sharpie artist will be at Staples, on the Staples Corner Industrial Estate, Cricklewood, between 11am and 3pm on Saturday, August 31, to customise all purchases free of charge.

For tips on how to uncap your creativity and to ask for advice on creating your own designs, pay a visit to the Sharpie Creation Station.

To be in with a chance of winning £100 to spend in Staples and a Sharpie bundle, just answer the following question:

Which item could you buy in Staples?

a) A pet dog

b) A pencil case

c) A lawnmower

Send your answer, along with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to Staples Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT.

Alternatively, email your answer, along with all your contact details, to jim.brock@nlhnews.co.uk with Staples as the subject matter.

Entries close on Friday, August 23, and usual North London & Herts Newspapers competition rules apply.

For more information and ways to get creative, visit www.sharpie.com

Terms and conditions:

- The competition is open from Wednesday, August 14, 2013, until Friday, August 23, 2013.
- The prize is courtesy of Sharpie Markers and Staples and includes a Sharpie bundle, made up of a selection of markers, pens and highlighters worth £50, plus a voucher worth £100 to spend in Staples for one winner.
- The prize is non-transferable and non-refundable. No cash alternative is available.

GRADUATION CEREMONY HELD FOR SCHOOL LEAVERS

at Head Start Day Nursery in Crews Hill

Pre-school children at Head Start Day Nursery in Crews Hill were delighted to receive their Graduation Certificates at a recent ceremony for school leavers.

Lucy Speechley, the Nursery Manager said, "The children were so excited, many of the children have been at our nursery since they were babiesand although the children would be missed they are all ready for the next phase of their schooling life".

Since opening the nursery in Crews Hill in the summer of 2010, the nursery has gone from strength to strength. Lucy goes on to say, "What makes our nursery quite unique is our extensive grounds – it is proven that children benefit tremendously from regular sustained periods of play in a rich and stimulating outdoor environment.

It supports children's problem solving skills and nurtures their creativity, as well as providing opportunities for their developing imagination, inventiveness and resourcefulness".

Make sure your children keep up over holidays

RESEARCH shows that children regress over the long summer holidays.

Many parents of children approaching GCSE level should get in touch with their school and find out what texts they will be studying in English, so they can read them over the summer.

One hour of reading every morning throughout the holidays is essential – check it is being done and give rewards.

Look back at your children's old exercise books. Identify the common mistakes in spelling and grammar and work on these – say, five spelling words a week over the summer.

Get your children to write down any teacher comments on their English work, how it should be improved and work on that.

If there are no comments, complain to the school. How can you work together if there is no feedback?

Of course, there should be a lot of praise in marking, too. Look through the work together and praise and reward your child for effort and what has been done correctly over the past year.

Listen to CDs of books just above your child's reading level.

But also read together as you can only improve your vocabulary this way. The sentence structures and the vocabulary in books is much more complicated than in speech.

Make sure your child builds up their vocabulary, too, noting any new words they come across and using them in conversation. Five new words a week should be the minimum.

Order magazines on whatever subject your child likes. The most important thing is that they are reading.

If they ask for anything for a birthday or as a treat, ask them to write a whole A4 page explaining why they want it or need it.

Make them revise it until it is perfect and explain that you work hard for your wages so they should have to earn treats by showing a willingness to work. Reward them with something extra if their work is really good.

And remember to praise any effort or achievement – five words of praise to every one of correction.

She's top of the crops

A HAIRDRESSING design inspired by Ladies' Day at Royal Ascot secured a prestigious award for a student from the College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London.

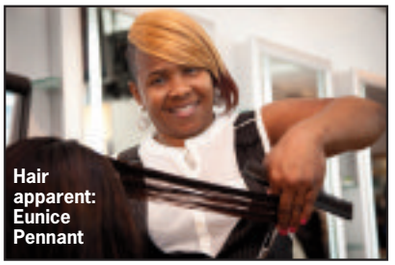

Eunine Pennant, who has completed her level 2 hairdressing course at the college, was named student of the year by SoftSheen Carson.

Her Lady Ascot design impressed judges from the renowned African-Caribbean hair brand.

Eunice said of her success: "I was really excited. It took a couple of days for it to sink in. I'm so glad for this opportunity and winning the competition has reinforced my enthusiasm for my hairdressing career.

"Hair has been my passion since I was a child. I decided to pursue it professionally in 2009 when I enrolled at the college."

Eunice wins £500 as well as a trophy and certificate for her success, while Softsheen Carson will also be donating £500 of hairdressing equipment to the college, which has centres in Enfield and Tottenham.

Hair apparent: Eunice Pennant

Jane O'Neill, interim principal and chief executive at the college said: "The college has an impressive track record for winning awards in hairdressing.

"I'd like to congratulate Eunice for her creativity and technical craft in creating a hairpiece that could pass as a hat at Ladies' Day."

Softseen Carson also gave Eunice the opportunity to work backstage at Africa Fashion Week London this month, where she helped prepare models' hair for the runway.

THE ALICE NURSERY
The Pre-School for Palmers Green High School
Is located in new purpose built premises and provides a stimulating, happy and secure environment – where learning is fun! Each individual pupil is nurtured and encouraged to develop independence, imagination and an enquiring mind. However, children do not all develop and learn at the same rate and so each girl is treated as an individual to enable them to fulfil their potential.
The nursery follows the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) curriculum – the document published by the DfES, which sets out goals for learning for children to achieve by the end of their reception year.
The Alice Nursery operates a 'key worker' system. This means that a member of staff has a group of girls for whom they are particularly responsible. Each child's 'key worker' will work with them to ensure continuity of care and help her settle into the nursery quickly and smoothly.

PLACES AVAILABLE FOR SEPTEMBER 2013

GPPS is a prep school for girls founded in 1924. Girls benefit from a caring, stimulating and nurturing environment encouraging them to become confident, independent learners achieving high academic standards.

The ISI Inspection in 2010 found that at GPPS there is a great community atmosphere where each child is well known by every member of staff and recognised as an individual. In a family atmosphere such as this the children are happy and therefore flourish academically. Before leaving GPPS every girl will have been given a responsible role at some level, instilling in them an ingrained confidence and preparing them for today's challenges.

LYONSDOWN SCHOOL BURSARY

Lyonsdown is an independent school for girls aged 3-11 years and boys aged 3-7 years

We believe in providing high quality teaching and learning within a nurturing environment. Our latest Independent School Inspection report said 'Lyonsdown School provides a happy and secure environment where pupils can thrive in fulfilment of its aims' which are:

- To provide education in a happy and secure environment where children can thrive and achieve personal excellence.
- To offer a broad, balanced curriculum embracing the seven areas of learning in Early Years Foundation Stage and the National Curriculum throughout the school with emphasis on Literacy and Numeracy.
- To prepare boys at 7+ and girls at 11+ to take up places in schools that are best suited to their needs.
- To develop independent thinking and an ability to express thoughts, feelings and opinions and develop creativity and imagination.
- To be inclusive and respectful of the unique value of each individual, encouraging them to play their part in expressing themselves, within the family life of the school and in the wider world, whilst upholding the principles of Lyonsdown's Christian Foundation which remains at its heart.
- To encourage the development of confident, caring individuals and allow pupils opportunities to develop their own human values, learning respect for the feelings of others and developing confidence and self esteem.
- To develop pupils' confidence to participate in physical activities and to express themselves through presentation.
- To work in partnership with parents and to provide a high degree of pastoral care, enabling pupils to grow and look forward to being part of the modern world.

In order to offer these opportunities to the widest possible cross section of the community the Lyonsdown School Trust is introducing a bursary award.

Commencing in September 2014, two places will be made available for children to join the school and receive a bursary award to cover the cost of the school's fees. The bursary process involves families completing an application form for due consideration by the school governing body and with awards made in accordance with the schools bursary policy and standard admission procedure and policy.

We very much look forward to launching these awards.

The deadline for applications for bursary awards for entry to the school from September 2014 is 31st October 2013. All enquiries should be made to the Clerk to the Governors on 020 8449 0225 or email enquiries@lyonsdownschool.co.uk

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

All secondaries are good or outstanding

EVERY secondary school in Haringey is now rated as good or outstanding by education watchdog Ofsted.

The news comes after St Thomas More Catholic School, in Glendale Avenue, Wood Green, received an outstanding rating, having been inspected for the first time since becoming an academy in March.

Also improving their ratings this year were Hornsey School for Girls, in Inderwick Road, Crouch End, and Park View Academy, in West Green Road, Tottenham, both of which were judged as good by Ofsted.

The boost for the borough's secondaries comes 15 months after Haringey Council launched Outstanding For All.

The independent education commission, chaired by Dame Anna Hassan, was set up by the local authority to improve standards across the 80 primary, secondary and special schools in Haringey.

One of its goals was for all of the borough's schools to be rated as good or outstanding.

And the news about the borough's secondary schools was welcomed by Claire Kober, the leader of the Labour council.

"This is a fantastic achievement that is down to sheer the hard work, determination and efforts of the borough's pupils, headteachers, staff and governors," she said.

"When I launched Outstanding For All, Haringey's education commission, I made a commitment that every child should have the opportunity to receive an excellent education.

"It's great to see all our secondary schools are now delivering against that aspiration.

"However, there's still a lot more to do. Together, we will continue to build on this success and work towards supporting all schools in our journey of delivering an outstanding education for all."

Haringey's four other outstanding secondaries are Alexandra Park School, in Bidwell Avenue, Alexandra Park, Fortismere School, in Tetherdown, Muswell Hill, Gladesmore Community School, in Elm Park Avenue, South Tottenham, and Woodside High School, in White Hart Lane, Wood Green.

Completing the list of good schools across the borough are Greig City Academy, in High Street, Hornsey, Heartlands High School, in Station Road, Wood Green, Highgate Wood School, in Montenotte Road, Highgate, and Northumberland Park Community School, in Trulock Road, Northumberland Park.

Council leader: Claire Kober

What if you haven't made the grade?

STUDENTS receiving unexpected exam results this year are being urged to stay calm and talk to the experts.

The Exam Results Helpline is a free telephone service by independent careers advisers. It will be open from tomorrow until August 24 for those receiving exam results in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

It is the only careers helpline with access to UCAS' applicant information and higher education qualifications, with experienced professionals offering up-to-date advice for students of all ages.

David Murdoch, who called the Exam Results Helpline last year, said: "It was really nice to have someone properly explain my options – what I could do, the alternatives I hadn't thought about and the processes I needed to go through. It was good to get objective advice."

Students reconsidering their options based on results they have or have not achieved should call 0808 100 8000.

Students with a specific query about a university application should call 0871 468 0468.

Boost for tech-level courses

FROM next year, technical courses for 16 to 19-year-olds will have the same status as A-levels.

Tech-level courses are aimed at improving the standards of vocation qualifications in England.

But they have not been reserved the same status as A-levels or included in league tables due to fears over varying quality.

Peter Finegold, head of education at the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, said the news was "very welcome".

"It will hopefully boost the number of students taking up engineering apprenticeships" he said.

"Well-designed apprenticeships, developed with the collaboration of industry, are vital to ensuring the UK has the right skills to support the country's engineering and manufacturing industries.

"Current forecasts suggest the UK needs to double the number of those taking up engineering careers by 2020 to avoid a skills shortage. Many industry leaders started their working lives as skilled apprentices and we expect Tech-levels to produce many of tomorrow's business leaders."

University students seek additional leg-up

THE number of university students from across south-east England requesting private tuition has risen by more than 50 per cent in the last three years.

That's according to Nevil Chiles, who founded London-based tutor agency Kensington & Chelsea Tutors in 2002 and its nationwide online platform Webtutornet a decade later.

He said: "We've seen a very clear increase, year on year, since 2010, from both BA/BSc and masters students looking for extra tuition to top up their university education – and the trend is hard to ignore.

"Clearly, the number of foreign students across the capital and Home Counties has increased over the past few years, but only by two to five per cent per annum. The proportion of enquiries we have had coming from those from overseas has remained consistent at 25 per cent.

"This suggests, if replicated with other agencies, that students across the board are recognising the importance of getting a head start within the context of an increasingly competitive graduate job market."

Nevil added: "About 70 per cent are studying for a BA or BSc, with business and marketing, economics and law accounting for the lion's share.

"The male to female split has remained consistent at 50:50.

"The majority of enquiries we get for private tuition are for GCSE and A-level subjects, predominantly chemistry, maths, history at GCSE level and economics, psychology and French at A-level.

"But the proportion of university students requesting our services has grown to ten per cent over the past 12 months."

New school for North London

St Andrew the Apostle Greek Orthodox School opens in September 2013 for Year 7 students. It will be the first Greek Orthodox, state funded, secondary school in the country and will eventually cater for students in the 11-19 age range. The school will shortly be accepting applications from Year 6 students who wish to start at the school in September 2014.

St Andrew the Apostle is situated on the North London Business Park in Barnet, close to the border with Enfield. The school is based on the Christian faith and the moral principles of the Greek Orthodox Church and we welcome all families irrespective of religious background, who are looking for genuine academic excellence in a happy and secure environment.

St Andrew the Apostle will offer a traditional curriculum with a strong emphasis on English, mathematics and science as swell as the opportunity to study Greek, Latin and Classics to GCSE level and beyond. 50% of our places are reserved for children from families of the Greek Orthodox and other Christian traditions.

Robert Ahearn, Headteacher at St Andrew the Apostle, has worked with the school's sponsors the Russell Education Trust and the Governing Body to recruit a truly exceptional teaching team. Together they will deliver the academic rigour, sporting achievement and cultural and moral development that parents seek for their children.

Graduation: A ceremony was held to mark the young volunteers' hard work

Top of the class

YOUNG volunteers who have spent the past 11 months working in schools in deprived communities across London had their achievements celebrated at a graduation ceremony last month.

The 110 young people, aged between 18 and 25, volunteered with charity City Year.

Known as corp members, they devoted an academic year to serve as "near-peer" role models, mentors and tutors to children from disadvantaged backgrounds.

In total, they put in more than 140,000 hours across 12 schools in the capital, helping more than 6,000 pupils.

Abigail Grant-Mends, of Enfield, helped at Gladesmore Community School, in Elm Park Avenue, South Tottenham

She said: "What really drew me to the programme was its length. With a whole year of volunteering, I was certain I'd be able to have a significant impact.

"Also, it gave me the opportunity to apply what I'd learnt in my degree, while also working with children, which is something I knew I wanted to do."

"It has been the best experience of my life. And luckily for me I'm staying on another year, so I will continue to have a positive impact."

Apprenticeship or a degree? Have both...

A WORK expert has spoken out in the debate about whether students have to choose between a university degree or a work-based apprenticeship.

Dr Darryll Bravenboer, of Middlesex University's Institute for Work Based Learning, was speaking following the release of the Tomorrow's Growth report by the Confederation of British Industry.

It warns the UK's future skills gaps cannot be met by traditional university degrees alone.

Middlesex is one of only two universities across the UK to be funded to develop degree-level higher apprenticeships – and it is now delivering higher apprenticeships within the care, construction, retail and aviation sectors.

Dr Bravenboer said: "I welcome this push from the CBI, perhaps the most powerful voice to date to insist that universities innovate and provide a diverse range of routes to high level qualifications."

"As part of a university at the forefront of this work, I still feel the need to battle against a polarised view, where talented people are told they must make a choice either between getting a university degree or going down an apprenticeships/work-based route.

"For young people and their parents, this won't wash and is a very tough choice to face while there is still an incorrect perception that apprenticeships are low-level or untested as a route to professional success.

"It's time for more universities to join forces with industry and the professions to take up the challenge of providing high-level apprenticeships and work-based degrees.

"There will always be a strong demand for traditional, campus-based degrees, but the universities creating the new breed of apprenticeships and work-based degree and masters level qualifications are providing a mix of theoretical and practical skills from the outset, through the workplace.

"This provides the best of both worlds – a university degree alongside professional recognition gained on the job."

Pick up advice and a free pair of sunglasses

STUDENTS will be able to pick up free sunglasses at a number of locations tomorrow on A-level results day.

The College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London will be celebrating the long-awaited release of results by offering bright sparks something to protect them from being dazzled by the sun.

From 1pm, the team from Conel will be close to the Tube station and the Hollywood Cinema, in Wood Green, as well as in the foyer of Tesco supermarket, in Tottenham, for the afternoon.

Students will not only have a chance to pick up some free sunglasses, but also advice about what Conel has to offer.

The college, which has sites in Enfield and Tottenham, offers four higher national certificates in applied chemistry, engineering, computing and systems development and animation and games design.

The courses are equivalent to the first year of degree study, but at a fraction of the cost.

And it may benefit some youngsters studying in a college, rather than a university environment, with students then able to progress to university to complete their honours degrees.

As well as higher education, aspiring students can find out about advanced apprenticeships.

If you want a job and training while you earn a wage at the same time, this could be an ideal option.

As well as picking up information about courses when they get your free sunglasses, students can discuss their options in more detail.

Visit advice and guidance at the Enfield or Tottenham centres from 8.45am to 4.30pm, Monday to Friday.

Open enrolment starts on August 23.

Alternatively, call 020 8442 3055, email courseinfo@conel.ac.uk or visit www.conel.ac.uk

Students access first step to nursing career

NURSING students from the College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London had their achievements recognised at an awards ceremony last month.

The ceremony, held at the college's Enfield centre, saw the access to nursing students presented with certificates for achieving high grades for their assignments as well as 100 per cent attendance and punctuality records.

Most of the students have already gained places to study nursing or midwifery at various universities.

Emma Martin, 28, who will begin a midwifery course at Middlesex University in September, said: "I really enjoyed the access to nursing course as it has given me the chance to go to university after ten years of being out of education. Getting merits and distinctions in my assignments has also been a great personal achievement for me."

Access courses are designed for adults who want to pursue higher education but do not have the formal qualifications to enter university.

Conel, which also has a centre in Tottenham, offers a wide range of access courses.

For more details about places on courses starting in September, call 020 8442 3055.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

Hope at the double as Town start with a win

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ROB BOURNE

Celebration time: Liam Hope (centre) is congratulated after scoring Town's second goal against Met Police

TWO goals from Liam Hope helped Enfield Town to get their Ryman Premier Division campaign off to the perfect start as they secured a thoroughly deserved 2-1 victory at home to Metropolitan Police on Saturday.

The visitors were among the pre-season favourites for promotion, but they were decidely second best for much of the match as Town produced an excellent performance and had numerous chances to score more than the two goals which Hope netted on 20 and 64 minutes.

David Knight pulled one back for Met Police with ten minutes remaining, but the hosts held firm with few alarms to secure all three points.

"I was very pleased with the performance," said manager Steve Newing. "For the first 75 minutes I couldn't have asked for much more – apart from maybe being four or five ahead with the chances we created.

"We probably had 12 or 13 good scoring opportunities over the course of the 90 minutes and we looked very dangerous going forward, but I thought we looked more solid defensively as well."

Tyler Campbell had the first real effort on goal for Town in the 11th minute as he latched on to a long ball forward and held off Max Fitzgerald's challenge before unleashing a low shot which was turned around the post by visiting keeper Mo Maan.

Summer signing Corey Whitely fired into the side netting from the resulting corner, while Adam Wallace failed to hit the target when he found himself clean through and Michael Ewang had a shot deflected narrowly wide.

But the pressure eventually told as Town took the lead in slightly fortunate circumstances, with an attempted clearance deflecting off a defender straight into the path of an unmarked Hope – who made no mistake as he drilled a low shot into the net from just outside the six-yard box.

And the hosts went close to extending their lead seven minutes before the interval.

A Whitely corner to the far post was headed back across goal by Chris Wild and flicked on by Hope, only for a defender to clear the danger just before Wallace could turn the ball in.

The hosts continued to look the more threatening side after the restart and Hope had a 25-yard free-kick turned away by Maan before Ewang dragged a shot wide from the edge of the box after good work from Whitely.

The crucial second goal finally arrived with 26 minutes remaining as Maan could only manage a weak punch as he came off his line to deal with Wild's free-kick into the box.

The ball fell to Hope, and he calmly lobbed into the empty net from 20 yards.

Wallace sliced a shot wide after again finding himself in the clear, before the visitors had their first serious attempt on goal on 77 minutes when Manny Osei fired narrowly over from eight yards out.

Three minutes later Met Police did give themselves a lifeline as Sam Clayton delivered a cross which Osei turned goalwards, and although Town keeper Noel Imber thwarted his effort with a stunning save, Knight latched on to the rebound and drilled the ball into the net.

The goal gave the visitors renewed belief but, unlike so many times last season, Town's rearguard refused to buckle and they comfortably held on for the win.

Defeat sees Winchmore Hill slip into drop zone

WINCHMORE HILL'S relegation fears intensified on Saturday as they crashed to a 116-run defeat at Stanmore which saw them fall into the drop zone in the top flight of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

The reigning champions have suffered a worrying slump in form in recent weeks, and this continued at the weekend as they were comprehensively outplayed from start to finish.

Hill were immediately made to regret their decision to bat first as Talha Azam and Stevie Eskinazi joined forces in an opening partnership of 95.

Azam eventually fell for 37, but Eskinazi continued to thwart the bowlers and went on to make a stunning 156 to put Stanmore in a commanding position.

Mark Ramprakash (58) gave him excellent support in a second-wicket stand of 116 and Stanmore continued piling on the runs before declaring on 303-4.

With the seamers proving ineffective, Ryan Corns was the only successful bowler, ending with figures of 4-112.

Scott Newman (69) played positively at the start of the visitors' reply, and Mark Barrell (38) and Corns (38 not out) also made good contributions.

But from a comfortable position at 120-1, they suffered an alarming collapse which led to them being dismissed for 187. Mukesh Bhatt (4-59) did much of the damage before Nicholas Goh (3-3) mopped up the tail.

There was also disappointment for Southgate as they could only manage a losing draw from their trip to Brentham in Division Two.

Some consistent batting enabled the hosts to reach a total of 217, with Luke Budden (46), Matthew Lowen (36) and Joe Brandreth (35) all playing well. Rob Johnson (4-53) was the pick of the bowlers.

Tom Edrich batted superbly in Southgate's reply, remaining undefeated throughout as he ended on 71 not out.

However, he received little support and the visitors were ultimately forced to battle hard to stave off the threat of defeat as they closed on 132-8.

Meanwhile, Enfield moved closer to claiming the Division Three title after beating Indian Gymkhana by 54 runs to move 13 points clear at the top of the table.

Neil Tilley (51) and Jack Plumb (35) combined in a first-wicket stand of 90 for Enfield, and Adam Ezekiel (74) and Tony Sayers (40) ensured that their hard work did not go to waste as the hosts posted a total of 285.

Indian Gymkhana made a positive start to their reply, with Puneet Mehra (93), Nirav Jariwala (43) and Rayaan Hussian (38) all playing well to put them in a strong position at 202-4.

However, some fine bowling from Lee Robertson (5-93) and Leon Smith (4-71) sparked a collapse which saw the last six wickets fall for the addition of just 29 runs – with Smith sealing their victory by dismissing Kunal Patel, one of five catches for wicket-keeper Plumb, with just two balls to spare.

But basement side Edmonton's miserable season continued as they were beaten by four wickets at Highgate.

Les Edwards made a quick-fire 67 for Edmonton after they were put in to bat, but he received little support and the side were dismissed for just 162, with Carman Mapatuna (6-55) doing much of the damage.

Mapatuna also impressed with the bat, top-scoring with 40 as Highgate raced to 165-6 to seal victory.

Winchmore Hill go to Hampstead on Saturday, while Southgate host Uxbridge, Enfield are at Barnes and Edmonton visit Indian Gymkhana.

KABOUL'S JOY AT COMEBACK

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNES KABOUL has expressed his relief at finally regaining full fitness after almost a year on the sidelines.

The French international defender was an integral part of the Tottenham Hotspur side during the 2011-12 campaign, but he then suffered a serious knee injury against Newcastle United on the opening day of last season.

Kaboul did eventually regain fitness in March, only to tear a thigh muscle before he had returned to action.

But the defender believes that he has now put those problems behind him, and he made his comeback at White Hart Lane as a second-half substitute in Saturday's friendly against Espanyol.

"It's been a long time for me since I last played," he said. "It's been a year now so I am fully happy to be back with the team.

"I missed football so, so much. I was very angry when I tore my quad at the end of last season, but this summer I got myself right to be ready for this season and now I hope the injuries are behind me.

"When you see your team struggling or winning you want to be with them. Win or lose, you want to be with them, and that was a big frustration.

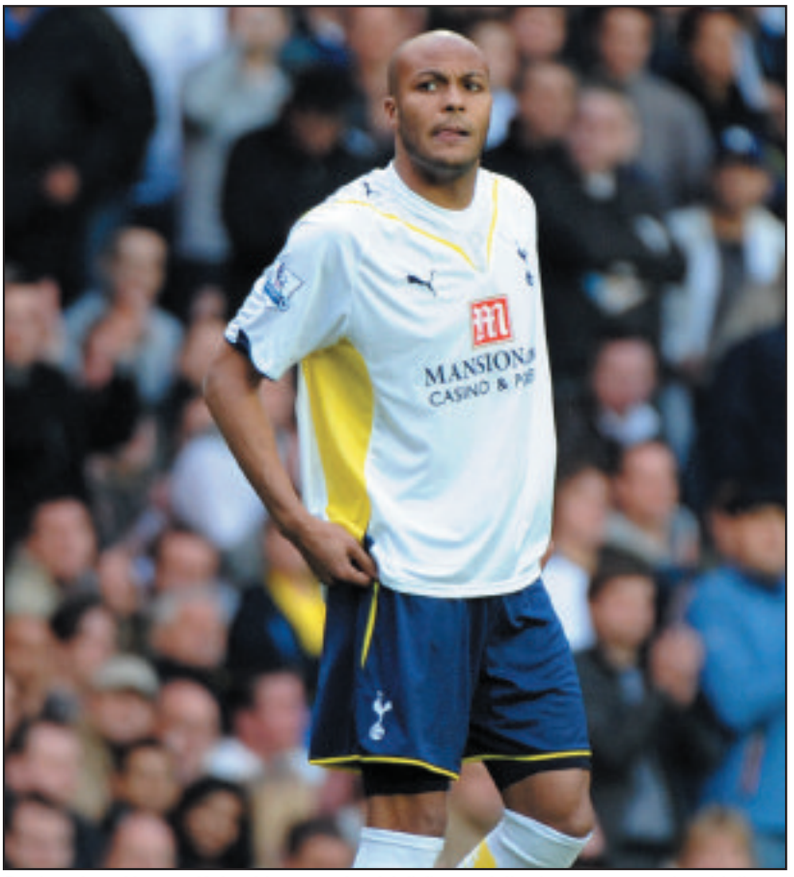

"I was in good form so I hope to be back even better than I was when I left. Now I feel fit, but I will have a good week again before the Crystal Palace game this weekend. I have to be ready for Sunday."

And Kaboul is optimistic about Spurs' prospects for the coming campaign.

"We are going to have to be in the top four this season," he added. "Last season we missed it by hardly anything, so this year we have to be there.

"The new signings are very good. This season is looking very good for us. Andre Villas-Boas [head coach] has done a magnificent job for the club. He broke Tottenham's Premier League points record last season and this season will be even better for him and us."

Villas-Boas was equally pleased to see the return to action of Kaboul and fellow long-term injury absentee Sandro – who featured against Espanyol having been sidelined since January.

Back at last: Younes Kaboul has regained full fitness following a year on the sidelines

He said: "To see Sandro and Younes back, players who have been so important for the club, is amazing, bearing in mind their absence.

"Particularly Younes, almost 12 months since he last played. He showed great strength of character to come back at this level and it means we can count on him in one or two weeks, and we're extremely happy with that."

Borough get season off to winning start

HARINGEY BOROUGH began life in the Essex Senior League with a hard-fought 2-1 win at home to Eton Manor on Saturday.

Having been switched across to the Essex League from the Spartan Premier League at the end of last season, Borough made a shaky start to their first match in the division as they were put under considerable early pressure.

The hosts initially held firm, but they fell behind on 28 minutes when their defence could only partially clear a free-kick and Kevin Bandjangi netted from close range.

Falling behind finally spurred Borough into life and Lawrence Costanti spurned a golden opportunity to level the scores before they did equalise in the 31st minute – Dean Fenton drilling a shot past visiting keeper Simon Gallagher.

And the hosts struck what proved to be the decisive blow ten minutes later as Anthony McDonald netted with a low shot which swerved beyond Gallagher's reach and into the net.

Borough were dominant in the second half and created numerous opportunities to add to their lead, but they were continually thwarted by a combination of some good saves from Gallagher and desperate last-ditch blocks from the defence.

However, Eton Manor offered nothing as an attacking threat after the interval and the outcome was never in doubt as the hosts held on for victory.

Haringey Borough begin their FA Cup campaign by hosting Rushden and Higham United in the extra preliminary round of the competition on Saturday (3pm).

North Middlesex move closer towards sealing league title

NORTH MIDDLESEX took another big step towards securing the Middlesex County Cricket League Division Two title on Saturday by easing to a six-wicket win at home to Shepherds Bush.

Bowling first, the table-topping hosts did well to restrict Shepherds Bush to 175 – with Ed Bird (3-31), Jaron Semper (3-32) and Nick Brand (3-36) doing most of the damage.

Sam Webber (73) then guided North Middlesex towards their target, receiving good support from Tom Nicoll (28) and John Mills (24 not out) as they cruised to 178-4.

Meanwhile, Hornsey suffered a narrow two-wicket defeat at home to title-chasing Ealing in the top flight.

Michael Phillipson (111) and Paul Weekes (58 not out) scored heavily as Hornsey amassed 219-8 batting first, but Chris Peploe's unbeaten 57 helped Ealing recover from 122-6 to make it to 220-8.

Third Division action saw North London secure an impressive five-wicket win at second-placed Kenton.

Ted Greally (7-93) bowled superbly for the visitors and, although Schopun Jooma (101) and Sachin Patel (58) helped Kenton to amass a challenging 246, Milo Jennings (78 not out) played the decisive innings as North London reached 247-5 in reply.

Highgate were also victorious as they beat basement side Edmonton by four wickets.

Carman Mapatuna continued his excellent season by taking 6-55 as Edmonton struggled to 162 batting first, and he then top-scored with 40 to help the hosts make it to 165-6.

Hornsey host Stanmore on Saturday, while North Middlesex entertain Brondesbury, North London are at home to Wembley and Kenton go to Highgate.
